Geophysical Institute interview Series
H2000-18-19/20

Roger Smith, Director of the Geophysical Institute is interviewed about highlights of the Institute's history. The interview was done as part of a series for the 50th Anniversary celebration of the Institute. The interview originated from a concern that the series needed some background in the administrative highlights of the Institute. The interview is also a tribute to the technicians and other staff that work at G.I.
